Julie:

Paula Smith asked me to confirm the number of drinking water intakes on the Navajo Nation that were shut down as a result of the Gold King Mine waste water release.

I confirmed with Kelly Zito of USEPA Region 9 that no drinking water intakes were shut down as a result of this incident. However, one Navajo Nation drinking water intake on the San Juan River had already been shut down for unrelated reasons.

If you have any further questions related to this information please let me know.
